Article 3 – Licenses

3.1 There are four different types of Licenses:

3.1.1 “Academic License”:

The Academic License is limited to Client's using the Software for education and research purposes only and comes with absolutely no warranty.

The Client must be an entity specialized in education and research in order to benefit from the Academic License.

The Client requests an Academic License on the Website, and the Licensor decides, in its discretion, whether it shall grant such Academic License to the Client based on a number of objective criteria, namely the teaching mission of the Client and its non-profit research activity.

The Academic License is free when limited to 1 computer and 1 concurrent User. For other usages, License Fees shall be paid by the Client to the Licensor. The License Key will be sent to the Client after receipt of the Purchase Order by the Client and payment of the License Fees.

Any commercial use is strictly prohibited. Only strictly personal use is authorized. Using the Software (whether for a fee or not) for the benefit of any other entity is forbidden to the Client regardless of the commercial or noncommercial nature of this entity.

3.1.2 “Trial License”:

A time-limited free Trial License can be granted by the Licensor on demand, at the Licensor's discretion, for a specified period. A Trial License is limited to Clients using the Software for evaluation purposes only and comes with absolutely no warranty.

Any commercial use or exploitation of the results obtained with the Software is strictly prohibited.

3.1.3 "Development License":

A Development License is granted by the Licensor for use of the Software for development purposes only. For purposes of this Agreement, to "develop" means to model optimization problems by using the Hexaly Modeler or its application programming interfaces (namely Python, Java, C#, or C++ APIs), then to produce results by running Hexaly Optimizer on data submitted by Clients for testing and evaluation purposes. Clients may not exploit these results for business or industrial purposes.

License Fees shall be paid by the Client to the Licensor pursuant to the Article entitled Fees. The License Key shall be sent to the Client after receipt of the executed Purchase Order by the Client and payment of the License Fees set forth therein.

3.1.4 "Production License":

A Production License is granted by the Licensor to exploit results produced by this Software for Client's business or industrial use.

The integration of Hexaly Optimizer inside an Application is performed solely by the Client, under its own responsibility. Once Hexaly Optimizer is integrated into an Application, Hexaly Optimizer will be used as part of its functionalities by the Client's end-users and never as a standalone software product.

License Fees shall be paid by the Client to the Licensor pursuant to the Fees Article herein. The License Key will be sent to the Client after receipt of the Purchase Order signed by the Client and payment of the License Fees.
